Dr. E. A. Farrington's clinical materia medica is more than 100 years old book and what a gem it is though it is a very nicely written book it is not as popular as Kent's lectures on materia medica so we at B. Jain decided to revamp this jewel

David S. Riley's interest in the research and subsequently the history and methodology of homeopathic drug provings began with his medical school training in 1979 and a residency in internal medicine he was exposed to homeopathy in 1988 followed by study at the Hahnemann College of Homeopathy in Albany, California. He has investigated the interplay between contemporary research methods and the research methods associated with homeopathic drug provings. Dr. Riley has developed research tools for data collection, symptom selection criteria and blinding primarily to address the risk of bias. The homeopathic drug provings published here are the result of this work. For the 3rd edition, twelve homeopathic drug provings conducted by a number of internationally renowned proving directors have been added. These homeopathic drug provings all follow good clinical practice (GCP) research guidelines and incorporate the guidelines suggested by Dr. Samuel Hahnemann more than 200 years ago.

Burt was one of the major provers of the new remedies. The author has condensed the experiences of Guernsey, Hering and others into a materia medica.

The young author has tried to visualise the symptoms of medicines making the difficult subject materia medica easy to understand and remember.

A brief materia medica derived primarily from the works of Boerhaave with additions a bit more readable than Boericke. Summaries of the remedies contain useful details.

In this book, well-proved drugs are selected. Symptoms are collected from well-known materia medicas. Symptoms are arranged from generals to particulars.

A condensed volume of materia medica for ready reference has all important aspects missing, nothing and avoiding repetition so as to serve as a handbook for students and practitioners.

An interesting way to study materia medica in a schematic fashion. It has mnemonics, memorising tips which will help the students in examinations.

Dr. N. M. Choudhuri's Materia Medica needs no introduction; however, Jain publishers in their continuing quest to improve the 21st century homeopathy have brought about a few changes in this edition which were felt to be long since overdue.

Phytotherapy or herbal medicine is the most important therapy within Chinese medicine and is being used increasingly in the West. A Materia Medica for Chinese Medicine: Plants, Minerals, and Animal Products describes 400 of the most important plants, minerals, and animal substances used as treatments by Chinese medical practitioners. The items included have been selected according to their degree of clinical relevance. Each remedy is clearly described and illustrated on two facing pages, making this an easily accessible reference for both students and practitioners of Chinese herbal medicine. The clearly laid-out text presents the following details for each herb or substance included: a detailed description of the characteristic features, indications for safe use, medicinal and toxic effects, possible combinations with other substances, full colour illustrations (generally two for each substance) showing the detailed characteristics of the item described. A Materia Medica for Chinese Medicine has been written by two medically trained doctors who have worked as TCM therapists specializing in the use of Chinese herbs for more than 30 years. Based on their many years of teaching and practice, the book has been carefully compiled and designed to provide a concise and accurate practice-based reference for both students and practitioners.

This little book contains brief information on various topics of medicine and pediatrics in a special style. Mnemonic form gives me great pleasure to present this little work to the profession.
